Re: In the Matter of Petition of USTelecom for Forbearance Pursuant to 47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I'm currently using Sonic Internet in San Francisco as an alternative to Comcast. I was very happy when Sonic entered the San Francisco market, since for a cheaper per-month rate, I get much better internet performance and much better customer service. For months, I saw Sonic trucks everywhere throughout the Richmond district of my city, as many, many other people made the same decision that I had -- to switch to Sonic.

As I understand it, Sonic relies on "unbundled copper and inter-city fiber transport elements (UNEs)" to compete against Comcast. From their mailings to their customers, it appears that deregulation of (at least) this part of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 would affect their ability to compete in SF. I strongly support the maintenance of these competitive provisions, as I don't want to have to return to the days of poor Comcast offerings and high prices.
